

Technology Facilitator Support

...all students will be taught by highly qualified teachers.

Synergetics can provide your schools with a highly qualified Technology Facilitator to assist your district in emphasizing the connection between technology and the curriculum. Surpassing the benefits of many standard Professional Development offerings, a Technology Facilitator brings both instructional and technological expertise into your classrooms. The Technology Facilitator will evaluate the specific Professional Development and Training needs of your district's educators and tailor a plan that allows them to move forward toward district, state, and national technology integration goals. Through an on-going series of on-site training sessions, the Technology Facilitator will model the effective use of technology in classroom instruction. By using small groups and one-on-one training settings during the regular school day, a Technology Facilitator is able to target the instructional strategies most appropriate to the courses being taught by individual teachers.

Your specific professional development plan may include many of the following services delivered by your Technology Facilitator:

- Evaluation of Technology Needs
- Technology Proficiency Assessments for Educators (Aligned with the Mississippi Technology Standards for Teachers/Administrators)
- Development of Personalized Training Plans that address the individual instructional needs of educators
- Expert support in the use of Instructional Technologies and Academic Software
- Innovative solutions for Technology Integration into the curriculum
- Identification of Educational Technology Resources suggested for standards-based, technology-rich classroom activities

One-on-one individualized training provided during the regular school day will reduce the amount of time a teacher is out of the classroom to attend professional development courses. This training format allows the Technology Facilitator to observe each teacher and help identify the individual training needs of each educator for improving their instructional proficiency and meeting the requirements for "highly qualified" teachers.
