

Applications and Web Development Improve Communication and Increase Productivity

Organizations today need increased productivity from their employees and systems. By integrating your existing applications, documents, and web sites you can achieve greater efficiencies through centralizing data and simplifying your existing processes. Synergetics can help you do this through all stages: planning, design, and implementation.

- Web Development and Maintenance
- Web-based Application Development
- Custom Software Development for Windows, Mac, and Linux
- Workflow Analysis Services to Streamline Business Processes
- Web Portal Development

Examples of how customers are using application development to assist their organizations:

- School Districts are creating active content pages for teachers to communicate with students, parents and administration on classroom activities and assignments.
- Businesses are capturing critical organizational data and centralizing its location to decrease employee search time, reduce paper documents, and improve interoffice communication.
- Universities are using content management systems to allow non-technical staff to update web pages using a simple web-based application with a word processor like interface.
- Accounting Departments are able to use secured web-based customer invoicing with simple click and fill application that prints an attractive professional invoice.
- Financial Institutions are benefiting from web based tracking letters of credit for financial institution through a secure web interface. Detailed reports can be generated based on the letters, allowing organizations to analyze commitments, track expiring letters, and verify commissions.
